EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Tribune's Thirty-fifth Anniversary.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The new Tribune building was formally opened this morning, the thirty-fifth anniversary of the birth of the newspaper, and was visited by crowds of people throughout the day. In the afternoon the editorial and city staff met, in the room of the editorial board, in a body, and made a present of a magnificent set of silver to Horace Greeley, inscribed with a picture of the new building and the monograms "H. G." 1841." "W. R." 1872." Whitelaw Reid made the presentation address, briefly complimenting Mr. Reid, and Mr. Greeley gracefully complimenting Mr. Reid, and Mr. Reid responded in a brief and appreciative address.

Col. Powell—Who He Was.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Col. John M. Powell, of Mississippi, who committed suicide yesterday, was a prominent planter in Mississippi. Wendell Phillips owned considerable property in Mississippi, and was one of his estate's "Cotton and Politics" plantation. Powell's plantation was managed successfully on Powell's plantation.

The Beecher Lobby Foiled.

NEW YORK, April 10.—In the assembly yesterday the bill to permit a wife to testify for or against her husband in civil actions or criminal trials was reported adversely by the judiciary committee, and the report agreed to. A similar disposition was made of Speaker McGuire's bill, allowing the wife or husband to testify for husband, or in behalf of another party, in cases of crim. con. MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 12, 1875.

THE TRIBUNE.

The New York Tribune on last Saturday celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of its birthday by removing into its splendid new building. No wonder there was a great crowd in attendance. No wonder the new home of the Tribune was visited during the day by thousands of people. The history of the Tribune is a thing for New York and for America to be proud of. From the day of its first number it has been the friend of the people and the champion of universal freedom and equal rights. It was never found on the side of the oppressor of the poor. It was never found among those who would compromise principle for temporary expediency. From its foundation to the day when the chains of slavery fell from the limbs of the African people of this country, it made the emancipation of that race its chief object and aim, regarding all other issues as merely collateral matters, more or less important according as they might prove to be factors of more or less influence in working out the main problem. And when the slave was at last made free the same enthusiastic devotion to the principles of justice which had inspired Mr. Greeley throughout his fight against slavery, urged him to the front in the demand for the rights of American citizenship for the emancipated people. When that point was gained his life-time's labor of love had been accomplished, and he was ready to go to his reward.

But ere he went he was permitted to place in the editorial chair of the great journal he had built up, a man fit and worthy to be his successor. Lacking somewhat of Mr. Greeley's sublime faith in the ultimate triumph of principle, Mr. Reid fails to inspire such a faith in the hearts of his readers as Mr. Greeley inspired; but he wants nothing of the vigor of thought and diction that characterized the work of his predecessor, while his superior scholarly attainments and general culture make the Tribune a better journal for the better culture of the present day, than it would be if it were in all respects what Mr. Greeley made it. As a newspaper the Tribune has always stood in the front rank of American journalism; and in this respect has taken greater strides in advance during the last few years than in any other, unless we except that of freedom from party dictation—and the papers that stand at the front to-day in America stand at the front in the world. There is no greater newspaper now published anywhere, than the New York Tribune, and there are few that can claim to be its equals. This is not said from the prompting of party or political friendship; for in many cases we have been unable to assent to the positions taken by the Tribune, and in some cases the sequel has proved that its course was not wise. But a paper like the Tribune is more than a business enterprise, more than the advocate of a principle. It is these, but it is also an institution of the country; an educational agency in the development of a national civilization; and it is from that point of view that we write of the Tribune. May it be as true a friend of the people as fearless a champion of human rights, as faithful a disseminator of American ideas, and as robust a representative of American journalism and American growth generally for the next thirty-five years as it has been for the last.

A QUESTION OF VERACITY SETTLED BY THE RECORD.

It will be recollected that some time since we gave our readers the facts, from the Congressional Record, with relation to the amendment to the Indian appropriation bill providing for the removal of the Indians from the southern portion of Siletz reservation and the opening of that part of it to settlement. The measure was one to which we saw no ground of objection, and we spoke of it simply as a matter of news in which Oregon readers were interested, without a sentence or line indicating disapproval. But we find our notice of it excited Senator Hipple beyond all bounds. In his rage he ordered C. H. Crandall, (who is now kept in the Department of Justice, on pay from the public treasury, for the purpose of having him on hand when any especially disreputable work is to be done) to write a letter to the ring-organ of this city on the subject, and to make it as offensively filthy as he could; as there was no danger of its being refused a place in the columns of the organ of that account. Crandall obeyed, and last Friday's Bulletin contains his letter. We could give our readers no adequate idea of the scurrility of the personal attack made by Crandall, without admitting into our columns matter such as never appears in decent journals, and therefore we shall make no further reference to it.

But the particular matter in our reference to the Siletz reservation which appears to have so exasperated the Senator, was the remark that in the course of the discussion on the amendment, in the Senate, Mr. Sherman intimated a suspicion that there was a job in it. We had no idea that a remote and delicate allusion of that sort would wound the feelings of an individual who had traded in jobs, legislative and judicial, all his life, except when he was busy with the commission and concealment of felonies, and we were therefore greatly surprised to see that he took offense at our remarks. However, this little virtuous freak of the Senator's would not merit any further notice at our hands, had not his man Crandall stated positively that no such intimation was given by Sherman, thus raising a question of veracity, which we propose to settle by the record. The discussion, as reported in the Congressional Record, commenced by Senator Hipple's offering the amendment providing for the removal of those Indians, when Senator Sherman said:

> I want to know if this comes from any committee. It is by just such amendments as this that the Indian appropriation bill has been made what it is—a mass of undigested legislation. I raise the point of order, if the chairman of the committee does not do it.

The Presiding Officer—What is the point of order?

Mr. Sherman—Whether this amendment comes from a committee.

The Presiding Officer—There is no appropriation in the amendment as the chair understands.

Mr. Sherman—This makes a new commencement of expenditure—the removal of Indians from reservations.

Mr. Mitchell—Not at all. I will explain to the Senator and to the Senate the object of this amendment in a very few words.

Mr. Ingalls—Are there any white settlers on the tract proposed to be set apart as a reservation.

Then Hipple followed at considerable length, endeavoring to show that everything about the measure was perfectly fair—as probably it was—explaining the situation, &c. But Sherman was not satisfied, and the debate went on thus:

Mr. Sherman—I desire to say a few words in regard to the character of this legislation. I can give the Senate some examples where this kind of legislation has brought us into trouble. Here is a proposition compulsory in its character, without consulting the Indians, to remove 500 from one reservation to another, and the reason given for it is to save the expense of an Indian agency. That is a very small matter. The expense of removing these Indians, according to the estimate of the department, is $25,000. That is too much to pay to stop one agency.

Mr. Mitchell—That is an entire mistake on the part of the Senator from Ohio.

Mr. Allison—If the senator will allow me—

Mr. Sherman—If I have the floor I want my five minutes; I do not want to be interrupted. The senator from Oregon himself said that the Secretary of the Interior had estimated for this service $25,000, but finding he could not get the appropriation, or that there was doubt about it, in order to get a mandatory clause in the law for the removal of the Indians, he was willing to do it without an appropriation. It was just such an amendment as this to an Indian appropriation bill that caused the Modoc war that cost us $3,000,000. A mandatory provision was made in the appropriation bill to compel the removal of a little band of Indians not two hundred in number. This is a serious matter.

Mr. Thurman—Can my colleague tell us how much the Modoc war cost us?

Mr. Sherman—Between eight and nine millions, I think, according to the war department; but I am not certain. It was a great sum of money, and many men were killed in that war. The famous Choctaw claim arose under a resolution offered by a senator from Arkansas, Mr. Sebastian, which was debated just five minutes. An objection was made to it, but Mr. Sebastian turned it off with a few words, and upon that award as it was said to be, a mere resolution of the Senate, was founded the famous Choctaw claim which was defeated in the House of Representatives only a few days ago, and which held this very Indian bill for two or three days. The famous award upon which that Chactaw claim rests was made in ten minutes in the Senate and on mention of a single senator presenting the report of the committee on Indian affairs.

If we are to consider the question of removing Indians from one reservation to another, it ought to be treated as a serious matter, which it may at any time become. It seems to me that it is sufficient answer to this proposition that it is not reported by the committee on Indian affairs, it is not accompanied with the necessary appropriation to carry it into execution, which of itself is a suspicious circumstance; and the reasons for it are not given in a written report. It is manifestly the purpose to disturb this Indian reservation in order to extend the white settlements over a portion of this reservation, a part of it having already been taken, and this mandatory provision requiring the removal of these two or three hundred Indians is to be carried out by money paid out of an appropriation made nominally for some other purpose, perhaps made for the education and support of these very Indians, which will be used in removing them forcibly against their will to some other portion of this same reservation. That is the way it appears to me. I think provisions of this kind ought to be made after examination and upon the responsibility of a written report made from the committee on Indian affairs. Then I would not object.

That is what the official record of the debate says about it. If Mr. Sherman did not intimate repeatedly and about as plainly as the courtesy of parliamentary debate would permit that he suspected there was a job in the amendment, language does not mean anything. And, as the subsequent part of the record shows, Sherman's suspicions were not removed till Senator Allison came to the relief of our Senator, and became the champion of the measure. It went through, then, without further serious opposition.

It is difficult to see how either Hipple or Crandall could have failed to understand that Sherman's significant language imported a suspicion of something unfair. We venture to say no other two men of ordinary intelligence could be found who would even pretend they did not see the point. The only explanation we can think of for the dullness of apprehension of these two individuals is, that the plain and direct speech to which they have been accustomed has blunted their perceptions till they cannot grasp the significance of the delicate and diplomatic language of the Senate chamber. It has been common in this country to say of Crandall, for instance, with the most unparliamentary directness, that he sold his vote in the legislature, in a certain case, for $800; and that once upon a time he did not get his neighbor's hog buried so deeply but that the neighbor could see and identify it. And as for the Senator, everybody knows how plainly he is spoken of in the public prints with impunity, and most people are familiar with the even worse reports which, though not mentioned in the papers, are nevertheless open secrets in the community. If this theory is not the true one by which to account for the imbility of these two worthies to understand any hint that is less broad than the toe of a number ten boot, we can offer no solution.

The attempt to lobby through the New York legislature a bill to change the laws of evidence for the special benefit of the defense in the Beecher-Tilton case, was a reprehensible thing, and it is gratifying to see that it has at last failed. Both parties would come off with less discredit, in the end, by contenting themselves with that measure of uncleanness which the established rules of law enables them to pour on the world, and should refrain from adding the indecencies of a legislative lobby to the case. It is to be hoped the result of this first effort of the kind will admonish others not to try it, or that all subsequent efforts will prosper in the same way as this one.

If Mr. Paul Boynton did not cross the English Channel from England to France on foot last Saturday he came very near doing it. The Herald gives the worst account of the trip, and according to that he went within five miles of the French shore, and was picked up a little tired, but otherwise in excellent trim. We are unable to present our readers with a description of this life-saving apparatus, but there can be no doubt it is a good thing to have in a family. Drowning would not be half so terrible a thing if one could only be fitted out with this apparatus and a box of good cigars.

On the 29th of March, Judge Dillon, of the U. S. Circuit Court, decided the habeas corpus case of A. C. Buell, charged with libelling ex-Senator Chandler, through the Detroit Free Press. Buell was arrested under the so-called "Press-Gag" law of Congress, and the U. S. District Court discharged him on habeas corpus. The decision of the District Court was affirmed by Judge Dillon.

Will the Bulletin man be so kind as to ask Dan. Malarkey, U. S. Marshal, whether he has ever been confined in the city jail, and then follow up the inquiry by ascertaining whether the name of that gentleman can be found on the records as a prisoner for whom board the city has been charged? And when that has been satisfactorily settled come around and ask us if we have any more names to refer to. We generally know what we are talking about, Mr. Bulletin.

On March 27th, says a New Orleans dispatch, Gen. Augur quietly took charge of the military affairs of the department of the Gulf. His aids came with him from Texas; otherwise his staff is the same as Gen. Emory's. Gen. Emory left on the same day for Washington.

"F. F. T." in Bulletin means David Powell. His marks are all over the letter from the first sentence to the last one. Nobody who ever heard him talk five minutes could be deceived by his "F. F. T." Further remark is unnecessary. To know the man is to know the rest.

FIREMEN'S LINE.—Hunting at a little fire which occurred to some of our hotel runners who was charged as much from Astoria the ocean steamers as they would have had to pay from San Francisco to this city. Astorian says: "Since fare has been reduced to $3 on the steamships of the O. S. N. Co. from Astoria to Portland, a powerful combination has been effected for the purpose of organizing an opposition line on the river. The owners in this scheme are all gentlemen connected at Portland. J. W. Hodgkin, connected with the American Exchange, to act as president; T. E. McAfferty, connected with he Occidental, will act as vice-president; Charles Ziegler, connected with the Commercial, will act as secretary; and Taff, connected with the St. Charles, will act as treasurer. Money has been raised to procure a jack-taff and halliards, and as soon as the same is paid in the boys will hoist it. It is said that Mr. Bradley, connected with the Clarendon, has been a favorite with all the members of this company for years, but does not stock in this opposition craft, for the fare is immediately reduced to a mere figure the boat will not be put on."

TO ARRIVE.—The Board of Commissioners, consisting of W. S. Ladd, Esq., Hon. R. Corbet, B. Goldsmith, C. Lineawedel, Esq., and Wm. Reid, have issued the following circular which they invite the special attention of farmers and others

Vaughn, same county, 10 5-16 acres; Michael Devlin, same county, 80 acres; Jim Dodson, Multnomah county, 60 77-100 acres; George W. Smith, same county, 40 acres; George M. "Flexible Police Club."—A few days since Chief Lappeus received from Chelsea, Mass., a couple of what is known as the "Flexible Police Club." These clubs are manufactured at the above mentioned town. Mr. E. D. Bean, of the Chelsea police force, is the inventor of the club, and obtained a patent on the 29th of September, 1875. The "Flexible Police Club" is composed entirely of sole-leather. It does not readily become defaced or scarred as a polished wooden club is liable to; has an easy feeling in the hand and a firmer grip can be got upon it than upon a wooden billet; cannot be broken; as is the case with a wooden one; is durable, and will, with proper care, last a life time; it presents a neat and ornamental appearance. In the place of the strap around the end it has a neat swivel. The chiefs of police of Boston, Salem, Newton, Fall River, New Bedford, Worcester, Lynn, Chelsea and other cities have adopted this club. One great feature of the club is that it is very effective and at the same time humane. A blow will knock a man senseless, but the yielding nature of the material will prevent any permanent or fatal results. With this club there is no fracturing of skulls or having open the scalp as frequently the case with the wooden billgons used.

Tuttle's Line.—Hinting at a little joke which occurred to some of our hotel runners who were changed as much from Astoria on the coast steamers as they would have had to pay from San Francisco to this city, the Astorian says: "Since fare has been placed at $5 on the steamships of the O. S. S. Co., from Astoria to Portland, a powerful combination has been effected for the purpose of putting an opposition line on the river. The moves in this scheme are all gentlemen well connected at Portland. J. W. Hodgkinson, connected with the American Exchange, will act as president; T. E. McAfferty, connected with the Occidental, will act as vice-president; Charlie Ziegler, connected with the Cosmopolitan, will act as secretary; and Taff, connected with the St. Charles, will act as treasurer. Money has been raised to procure the jackoff and halliards, and as soon as the balance is paid in the boys will put a stop to that little game. Thomas Bradley, connected with the Clarendon, has been a favorite with all the members of this company for years, but has no stock in this opposition craft. If the fare is immediately reduced to a minimum figure the boat will not be put on."

To Farmers.—The Board of Commissioners, consisting of W. S. Ladd, Esq., Hon. H. W. Corbett, B. Goldsmith, C. Linenweber and Wm. Reid, have issued the following card, to which they invite the special attention of farmers and others: "Immigrants are arriving in the State by every steamer in search of employment, and the Board find difficulty in getting vacancies for them. We therefore earnestly request farmers and others who require farm lands or labor of any kind, to immediately communicate with us, and we will gladly supply them with such labor free of charge on our part. Please state the wages offered, the class of men you want, and for how long employment will be given. The secretary is in daily attendance at the Board rooms, Ankeny's building, Portland, from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. each day, to whom all letters should be addressed."

Complimentary and Complimentary.—The Record speaks as follows of the elocutionary readings recently given in Salem by Ben. Teal: Mr. Ben. Teal, son of Col. Jo. Teal, has been spending a few days in Salem, stopping at the Ohemeketa Hotel. Last evening there was an impromptu gathering in the hotel parlor. Judge Chadwick and son, Mrs. Prim and daughter, the Waltons, Mrs. Kearney, who is one of its guests, and quite a number of her friends, besides others of the hotel family, all of whom were entertained and delighted at being favored by readings by Mr. Teal from Macbeth, Merchant of Venice, from Mark Twain's work, the standard poets, including tragedy, comedy and farce, who gave the varied subjects and styles such appropriate rendition as charmed his hearers and confirmed the reputation the young gentleman has for dramatic talent and elocution.

Departed — Arrived.—The steamer Oriflamme departed for San Francisco at 4 o'clock on Saturday evening. She carried hence a full freight list and a large number of passengers. Yesterday morning at 4 o'clock the steamer California sailed hence for Sitka and intermediate ports, with a full cargo. At 12 o'clock on Saturday night the steamer Gussie Telfair arrived at this port from the north. Saturday afternoon the schooner Superior arrived here, bringing a full cargo from San Francisco.

Accident.—A few days since a man named Collins, residing in East Portland, met with a severe accident. He was coming down the steep grade at the foot of L street to get aboard of the ferry-boat. When about half way down, the boat pushed off for the western shore. Collins ran as rapidly as possible to reach the ferry, and just as he sprang from the landing one foot slipped and caused him to fall. He fell heavily on his side, and several of his ribs sustained severe injuries.

Additions to the Library.—The following books have been added to the large list now in the Portland Library: Wilfrid Cambermede, presented by Mrs. H. Clay Wood; Reports of Chief of Engineers, U. S. A., for 1872-4, in two parts.—Inter-Oceanic Railroads and Canals (1860).—List of Lighthouses, Lighted Beacons and Floating Lights on Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific, corrected for 1875.—all presented by Gen. Meigher; Law and the Lady. Wilkie Collins' last work.

Steamer Ohio.—This steamer came in on Saturday afternoon from Salem with a full load of flour, which was taken on board the Annie Stewart for the La Excocean now completing cargo at Astoria. The Ohio will lay off for three or four weeks, to be repainted and put in perfect order for the summer business. It is the intention of the owners to run her regularly to Corvallis and Harrisburg during the low water season.

Annual School Meeting.—This evening the annual school meeting of the tax payers of District No. 1, will be held at Central School House, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. The object of the meeting is to receive the annual reports of the school directors and clerk, and to consider and discuss other business pertaining to the interest of the district. It is quite important that there should be a full attendance of the tax payers.

Weather Report.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, April 11, 1875:

	7 A. M.	2 P. M.	9 P. M.
Thermometer	46°	72°	60°

Horse Carriages.—Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the auditor and clerk, W. S. Caldwell, until 12 o'clock M., on Friday, April 16, 1875, for the construction of two-horse carriages, authorized by ordinance. Plans and specifications for the same can be seen at the auditor's office.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Now is the time to clean out cellars and back-yards.

"Crossing on the ferry" was the popular idea yesterday.

The new postal rates on transient newspapers mailed is now in force.

Perfectly irresistible—the bright sunshine and balmy air of yesterday.

Streets are getting dusty. If the present weather continues the sprinkler will be making its rounds in a few weeks.

There is again much talk of a strong opposition line of steamers being put on the route between Portland and San Francisco.

Special meeting of the Common Council on Wednesday evening—the 24th anniversary of the organization of the present city government.

Capt. Dick Hobson, of the W. R. T. Co. steamers, won that ornamented cake at the recent fair. He was a fortunate man, having won two prizes.

Rev. Mr. Sloan, of Puget Sound, who has been under treatment for insanity at Steilacoom for several months past, will be removed to the asylum at East Portland shortly.

Boat sailing has commenced again. We keep several pencils well sharpened expressly for writing obituaries, which will be cheerful intelligence to those fond of aquatic sports.

A Fourth street rooster says that a lady across the street is constantly singing, "Oh! I am weary, let me rest." He remarks that he is perfectly willing for her to take a rest, although he is quite fond of music.

An Olympia paper says the ladies and gentlemen of that city who recently gave the "Old Folk's" concert here, speak highly of the kind manner in which they were treated while in Portland, and only regret that they found it impossible to repeat their concert.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Effie Gray, a libitine of a high toned bang-nio, was fined $10 for disorderly conduct. The accused lady paid her fine.

Robert Small, a colored gentleman, for assault and battery, was fined $5 and costs. In default he was sent to jail for 11 days.

Ah Fook, a Celestial, for the larceny of some soap and sundry other household articles, was locked up, and will be arraigned in court this morning.

Two devotees of Bacchus—Butler and McMann—for indulging in a "jamboree," were locked up on Saturday evening, and will be tried this morning.

Carrie Bainbridge, a well known nymph du pave, is under arrest for laying violent digits on the person of Effie Gray. The case will be called this morning.

W. L. Webster, not a descendant of the sage of Marshfield, for absorbing too much rye-juice, was fined $5, and scorning the iron cell and jailor's key, promptly liquidated the insignificant sum.

A gentleman (?) giving his cognomen as Martin Jenkins Van Buren was arrested and locked up. This fellow was very drunk, and when arrested was entering different houses in the lower part of the city, much to the annoyance of the inmates.

The case of State vs Capt. Peter Muckle was dismissed. The defendant was charged with committing an assault on the cook of the steamer Oriflamme. When the case was called, the prosecuting witness failed to put in an appearance. The case was dismissed, and the costs taxed against the complainant. However, the cook could not be found prior to the sailing of the steamer for San Francisco.

THE COURTS.

U. S. District Court—Deady, J.

Saturday, April 10, 1875.

U. S. vs. Mark Winslow; indicted for giving liquor to an Indian; defendant arraigned and not answering by order a plea of "not guilty" entered; set for trial on the 12th of May next.

Thomas Russell et al. vs. tug Katonka; report of commissioner confirmed; decree for the libellants: Thos. Russell $80, C. P. Merrill $82 71, J. N. Fisher $82, George R. Fox $77 25, and that the vessel be sold and proceeds paid into registry of the court.

In re St. Helens Mill Co., hearing on objection to claim of J. B. Montgomery continued to Saturday next.

The following rule was adopted by the court:

"Rule 61.—No more than $50 shall be allowed the attorney of the petitioning creditor out of the estate of the bankrupt for his services prior to the appointment of an assignee, except upon a special application to the court and an order therefor."

Mr. J. C. Fitzgerald, agent for the Vallejo patent socket hoe, has samples at the Cosmopolitan Hotel. The detached hoops are packed for shipment in boxes as compactly as dry goods, and cost the dealer but one-fifth the freight of the ordinary broom, making it a more desirable as well as profitable broom. Mr. F. informs us that he has taken orders for over two thousand dozen within the last two months. Interior merchants, call and see samples. Send orders to Robinson, Fowler & Co., South Vallejo, California. All orders shipped from San Francisco. Hachemy & Stemmler, First and Taylor streets, have the Socket Broom for sale.

YE SPELLING SCHOOL.

"Donny Brook Fair" sends us the following account of an orthographical tournament which recently came off at Oregon City:

In conformity with the fashions of other metropolitan cities, the spellists of Oregon City gathered together at Library Hall Friday evening of last week, for the purpose of testing their relative merits in orthography. The awesome flinching, and other important business on hand elsewhere, that unfortunately prevented some teachers from attending, but, as it was, Judge Randall and School Supt. Moreland marshaled the opposing phalanxes, and after one hour's exercise, the judge's company were declared victors by a majority of two in respect to the number of words missed by the opposing sides. Considering there were some 40 engaged in the fray the percentage of correct spelling was excellent.

A "spell down" was then indulged in, in which C. P. Church came off the victor. This emboldened individual then proposed to pronounce words of ordinary usage which would spell the house down in 20 minutes, which challenge was accepted but at the expiration of that time Miss Clara Caufield still remained monarch of all she surveyed and defeated the boast of the challenger. A prominent lawyer and his wife went down on "purpose," albeit they have three of their own.

The word "absolution" was likely to have "cleaned out the town," until caught by Owen Wade, who, in a moment of abstraction, spelled it properly.

F. O. McCown rendered excellent service in acting as the general orthoepist and moderator of the meeting, and, like Henry of Navarre, men and women went down like chaff as he swung the ponderous battle ax of orthographical mate.

Oregon City has within its boundries, spellers in and out of school life, who will not stand it to have their coat tails tread upon by any delegation of spellists in the State.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Theater.—New Market Theater was crowded Saturday afternoon at matinee, and and in the evening. "Donbey and Son" was repeated at matinee, and "Rosina Meadows" and "Dick Turpin," for the evening's performance. In each instance the programme was spiritedly rendered, and gave satisfaction. One of the best bills of the season will be presented this evening: Tom Taylor's 3 act comedy, entitled "Black Beatles, or the Babes in the Wood," and concluding with the Bouffeumene musicale by Offenbach of "Blind Beggars." During the interlude, Miss Rillie Deaves will appear in her favorite Silver Clog, "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "Hard Struggle," are underlined for Wednesday evening. No extra charge for reserved seats.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Last week our German citizens, and a good many who are not Germans, had a jolly good time during the fair, which wound up with a grand drawing, and the result indicated that about 300 persons were made happy, having fortunately held prize tickets.

The excitement of the fair over, a grand ball is next in order, and this evening has been appointed as the time for holding the same, and the Rink the place wherein the affair will take place. Those who were present at the ball given by the German Aid Society, at the conclusion of their last fair, are fully aware what kind of an affair it was, and we have no doubt the society will make the event of to night equal in all its enjoyments.

PERSONAL.

Among the passengers by the Ajax, now on her voyage to Portland, are Rt. Rev. Bishop Morris and family, ex-Gov. A. C. Gibbs and Judge Lorenzo Sawyer, of the U. S. circuit court.

Geo. L. DePrans took his departure on the steamer Oriflamme for San Francisco. He will be absent about two weeks. We understand the object of Mr. DePrans' visit is to engage attractions for the New Market Theater.

P. L. B.—This evening at 7:30 o'clock, there will be a meeting of the Portland Light Battery. Important business will be on the tapis, and a full attendance is desirable.

Two Germans passed the Postoffice near,
And at each other they looked so queer,
That one of them turned right about,
And to the other like this did shout:
"Hans! why all des unhappy look?
Was it known what made dem clothes fit best?
Come! Bird's Emporium was not far,
And smoke mit me a fine Cigar."

This poem is not the best in the world, but is good enough to express the extreme happiness felt among a Cigar from Bird's EMPORIUM, First street, bet. Morrison and Alder.

SOMETHING NEW.

The new style of promenade photographs. These beautiful pictures are now made at Bosco & Megler's new rooms, Nos. 127 and 129, First street. Call and examine them.

The Spring time has come, and with it new Goods to our enterprising merchants. The styles are much changed in clothing, and the dull times have worked a change in prices too, so much so, that persons with limited means can invest liberally. J. KOHN, opposite National Bank, is among the first to introduce the new styles from the Eastern markets. He has an immense stock which is well worth looking through. Call and see the new stock.

The observing man must have noted a change in the establishment of BECK & WALDMAN. The last steamer brought them quite a large invoice of Spring Styles, which they are having displayed for the inspection of their numerous customers. They will continue to offer the public the best bargains. As usual the stock of Youth's clothing is varied and parents may find many new things that will be sure to please. Drop in this evening.

A Tonic of Rare Merit.

There are many tonics, but few indeed which produce any other effect than artificial stimulation of the appetite. This, so far from being a benefit, is a positive detriment, if the digestive organs are weak, because it induces the patient to eat more than the semi-paralyzed stomach can act upon, and thus aggravates indigestion. There is, however, a tonic which possesses the rare merit of imparting both vigor and regularity to the operations of nutrition. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters provoke a wholesome appetite, because they enable the stomach to dispose of what it receives with such healthful rapidity that at the proper time for meals it is not torpid from indigested matter, but craves it intuitively, sustenance. It is the very fact that it facilitates digestion that renders the rational stomachic such a powerful coadjutator of nature in instituting those recuperative processes which result in the recovery of the general health. Uninterrupted, vigorous action of the physical machinery inevitably results from the use of this supreme invigorant and alterative.

It is an Established Fact, that Consumption can be cured; but it is far better to prevent the cruel disease from fastening itself on the system, by the timely use of a remedy like Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. This standard preparation will speedily cure a cough or cold, and even Consumption often yields to its great power.

HEREDITARY CONSUMPTION BAFFLED.

Because there is an inherited tendency to consumption it does not follow that the heir to this sad legacy must die of the disease. The early symptoms of danger are manifest—a cough being the first and most prominent. Meet this destruction of peril with HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR, and in three days it will have vanished, and with it all cause of apprehension. No matter how deficient the lungs may be, or how strong the predisposition to consumption, a speedy cure is absolutely certain.

TOUCHING INCIDENTS OF THE PORT JERVIS FLOOD.

Port Jervis, (N. Y.), March 19.—Many touching and interesting incidents occurred during the flood. Among the hundreds of families who were forced to desert their houses, there were some who met with unusual circumstances. One of these, the most touching, was the carrying of Mary Ann Kelley from her mother's house to Sussex street. Miss Kelley had been a helpless invalid. She was taken from her very death-bed, and conveyed to the Children's Home in Ball street.

Sister of Charity walked by the side of the sled in which the dying girl was placed, and held her hand while she comforted her with cheering words.

A poor widow, living in Germantown, the morning of the flood, came to this place to order a coffin for her baby, which had died the night before. She left her house and the corpse with her daughter, aged five years. While the bereaved mother was absent the flood came rolling down the flats. A man living near ran to her house, and endeavored to induce the little girl to leave it. She refused to leave her dead brother. The man picked her up, and carried her, weeping and screaming, to a place of safety. When he released her she ran swiftly back to her mother's deserted house and re-entered it. She remained but an instant, and then ran out with the dead body in her arms. The flood was but a short distance away, and bearing down upon the ground the little girl had to cross with her burden. She reached a safe position before the wave of ice rolled by, and, looking back to see her humble home crushed to atoms in the mass of ice, she started in search of her mother. The latter, when the alarm was sounded, hastened to return home, and met her little girl carrying the lifeless baby in the midst of the crowd that thronged the high ground. The scene that followed is indescribable.

The wife of Patrick Creighton, a cripple, carried him out of the house, which was battered in by the ice before they knew of its near approach. In doing this she at the same time maintained control of nine small children, bringing them all to safe places. An old lady living alone refused to leave her house at all, and was carried with it twenty-five feet among the ice, and landed high on a huge cake. She remained in the house during the whole of the terrific strife of the elements about her.

There is a queer case on trial in Worcester, Mass. The first wife of a man sues the seventh wife for the sum of $1,000 alimony which was granted her in a suit for divorce twenty years ago. The ground of the suit is that the present wife holds property in her own name which was deeded to her for the purpose of defrauding her and to get rid of paying the alimony granted by the court. The defence is that the estate in question was purchased with the defendant's own money.

The French Government has denied to Montpensier a passport to Spain, on the ground that the granting would be a precedent for granting a similar favor to ex-Queen Isabella, which is deemed undesirable. That is what Montpensier makes by being of kin to royalty.

THE OLD MAN WITH THE SAWS.

On a Congress street car the other evening was a very quiet lot of passengers, and among them a man about sixty-five years old, having four or five hand-saws under his arm, apparently a saw-filer. Opposite the old man sat a woman with a young baby in her arms, and presently a broad grin covered the old fellow's face, and he nodded to the child and said:

"I never loved anything as I love children; I can hardly keep from biting this little ears."

He waited a moment and then asked:

"How old is that beautiful child, madam?"

"Eight months," she replied.

"Only eight months? Why, I've seen children twenty-five years old who didn't know as much as that child does! I had a child drowned in a bar'l once, and you don't know, madam, how it floored me!"

He looked around the car for a moment, and then said, reading from the card:

"Change to the amount of $2 will be furnished by the driver. Well, that's liberal enough. He hasn't offered me any yet, but I suppose old customers will be served first."

The driver counted noses, saw that he was one fare short, and he jingled the bell.

"Are we near some station?" asked the old man, standing up and looking out.

He sat down after awhile, looked around, and, his eye falling upon the baby, he asked of the mother:

"Couldn't you let me hold him a little while? See him look at me! I'll bet $10 he thinks I'm his father!"

She refused to trust the infant off her knee, and the old man's face grew sad and he sighed as he said:

"Just think of it—that innocent child has got to be buried in the ground and be eaten up by worms, like the rest of us!"

He wiped his nose on one of the saw-handles, held his hat in his hand and his eye catching a sign on a grocery, he exclaimed:

"Sweet milk for sale here! That makes me think, madam—do you bring that child up on the bottle?"

Her face grew very red, and she made no reply. She old fellow looked his saws over one by one, laid them down, and walking to the front end of the car he picked up a basket containing meat and asked:

"Does any one own this meat?"

A woman made a motion to signify that it was her property, and he uncovered the basket and called out:

"Pork chops and a small piece of veal. People that want to eat veal can gnaw away but I don't want any! What are pork chops a pound, madam?"

She did not answer, and the old man picked up his saws, and asked:

"Does any one here know the name of the man who invented saws?"

There was no answer, and he pulled open the car door and continued:

"Yes, I do love children. I was a child once myself, but I didn't have any fun.

As he stood on the platform he went on:

"It will be just like me to fall down when I step off, but of course I can't stay on this car forever. Well, good-by, everybody, and pleasant dreams to you."

He stepped off the car, slipped and fell flat in the ditch, while his saws flew in every direction. As the car passed on he was heard saying:

"They ought to have a machine to lift people off the cars."—Detroit Free Press.

Prejudice lurks in hidden corners of all minds over which knowledge has not shed its penetrating light, and prejudice is the natural foe of malignity.

Fontenelle thus daintily compliments the sex when he compares women and clocks: "The latter serve to point out the hours, and the former to make us forget them."

Far from the crushed flowers of gladness on the road of life, a sweet perfume is wafted over to the present hour, as marching armies often send out from heaths the fragrance of the trampled plants.—Richter.

The Milwaukee Sentinel thinks that it is a mistake to suppose that education alone, unless it embraces some specialty, fits the possessor to secure the prizes for which men contend; and it thinks, furthermore, that it could hire ten thousand thoroughly educated men in the United States at the present time, to work for $50 a month, but that it couldn't hire mechanics for that.

Civilization no longer makes men unwarlike or effeminate; on the contrary, it has become an invigorating, fortifying power, both to mind and body; it renders us more fit than ever to discharge the functions of a soldier. But while it has improved both men and weapons, it has simultaneously confirmed the money-making tendencies of war; indeed, after the example we had a few years ago, it is rather frightening to look forward to the fate of the conquered country in the next struggle which comes off. We may be quite certain that tons of gold will be demanded as if they were cigars or bon-bons; and that the character of ill-tempered commercial speculation which war is more and more assuming, will come glaring out with a ferocity of purpose of which we have had no examples since the time of Shylock.—Blackwood.

Public opinion must sooner or later see that it is a positive crime to bring persons into the world whose lives must be a burden to themselves and to everybody about them, and must at last be cut short prematurely. Or, look again at the way in which madness is allowed to be propagated. A patient out of a lunatic asylum on trial is allowed to become the parent of children, who are sure to inherit the most terrible of all infirmities. And nobody seems to think that much harm has been done. Families with madness in them think nothing of intermarrying with others in the same condition, and consequently the family taint is handed down from generation to generation. Of course, if we are to attempt to apply to them the same principles which we apply to animals, we shall have to interfere very considerably with the liberty of the subject, but that cannot be helped. It is very true observation of Bacon's "that we can only conquer Nature by obeying her. If Nature decrees that the fittest only shall continue the race, and unless we are prepared to accept the degeneration of the race we must be prepared to follow her dictates."—Land and Water.

Said a thoughtful father to his new son-in-law: "Now that you have won her, you must tour."—Danbury News.

The fair weather has given some impetus to commercial matters though some departments seem still to be sluggish and likely to so continue for a fortnight or until the farmers have done their spring seeding.

Financial matters, of a local character, are unchanged in their main features, the general tendency toward greater closeness being observed, and the favorable funds in the market showing a manifest decrease. Rates, both at bank and on the street, are about at the same figures which have prevailed during the past winter, but are rather firmer than a month ago.

In trade matters there are no new developments today, merchants being only moderately busy in filling the few orders on hand and receiving and arranging goods that have just arrived per Oriflamme and Superior from San Francisco. The expectation now is that interior merchants will be quite freely represented in the market within the next fortnight, and that the volume of trade during the month will be a gradually increasing one, at least until as late as the 20th or 25th.

In the line of domestic produce there is a brisk demand for oats, barley, potatoes, apples butter and a few other articles at firm prices, and most of these show an advancing tendency. The staples of flour, wheat and wool remain unchanged, some few transactions in the latter have occurred, but the season is as yet hardly far enough advanced to give any indication as to the course of the market, but the premises are that some improvement may be expected. Fresh meats are in fair demand at our quotations; poultry is becoming plentiful and a decline in prices is anticipated; eggs are likely to drop to 20 cents per dozen before many days. Our merchants generally know what it pays best to ship and some of the articles most in demand and in which trade is most active, go to make up the exports of the vessels which leave our portsfrom time to time.

Tonnage.

Our latest San Francisco exchanges inform us that the tonnage market in that city continues depressed, and vessels were unable to obtain offers of more than 42 6s at the highest for a direct port, or 22 10s@42 5s for Cork for orders. During the month of March eight of the largest and best ships in the port of San Francisco left in ballast to load elsewhere, nine going to Australia, one to Hongkong, and the other five to Manila. Four others were ordered to British Columbia to load coal, and still four more went away in ballast to South America to load guano for Europe and two more to Barrard Inlet to load lumber, and the Pactolus and Elizabeth Dougall to Oregon for wheat. The two last were chartered in San Francisco at 65s per ton.

It is not yet early enough to speculate on the probable supply of tonnage for the surplus wheat crop of this coast for 1875, but the fact of so many grain vessels getting away in ballast from San Francisco does not augur well for a full supply in that line of business next harvest year, though events yet in the future may change the aspect of affairs in this regard. We can say, at least, that since Oregon began to export produce on a scale of any importance no vessel suited for the wheat trade has left any of her ports in ballast. But one vessel of any kind has gone to sea from Portland in many years without at least a fair cargo.

Wheat—Choice, to arrive, $1 70.

Barley—$1 40@1 65.

Oats—Choice Puget Sound, $1 90; ranging $1 85@2. Hay—$10@16.

Corn—Yellow, $1 50; choice white, $1 67½.

Potatoes—Sweets, $2 @2 50; Early Rose, $1 25@1 37½.

Ripe fruit—Strawberries—30@40c.

House Produce Market.

WHEAT—Nothing has transpired to day to induce any change in the quotations which were last given. There is one vessel now in the market for a cargo of wheat and two or three others are likely to be; that some inquiry at least will be instituted having reference to furnish cargoes for them. At present quotations are almost nominal at $1 40 per cental.

FLOUR—The market is very firm at $4 90 per bbl. for standard extras, $4@4 25 for good to choice brands, and $3 75 for superfine. Receipts are light, owing to the stoppage of a number of mills in the interior on account of the high water and other causes.

OATS—The market has made a sharp advance during the past two or three days and good to choice are quotable at 50@55 cents per bushel. A large upward movement is also noted in the San Francisco markets.

BARLEY—The demand is fair and receipts comparatively small. No change in quotations from last report.

MILL FEED—The scarcity noticed before continues, and there is considerable inquiry, at current rates, for all sorts. We quote the market firm at $13@14 ¾ ton, for bran; $27 50@28 for middlings, chops, etc., and $22@22 50 for shorts.

HAY—The market is fairly supplied at $11@12 ¾ ton, for good timothy, and $7@7 50 for wild. For the latter the demand is dull.

POTATOES—There is some inquiry for shipping, and advanced rates are ruling. We quote at 75@90 cents @ bushel for choice to prime.

ONIONS—The market is in fair supply and the demand dull at $1@1 25 @ 100 pounds for choice assorted.

APPLES RIPE—There are but few choice lots offering, and prices are firmer at our quotations last given.

APPLES DRIED—The trade is inactive, but prices are nominally steady, at 5c @ ¾ in sacks, and 6c in kegs.

BACON—The market is firm at 11@12 cents @ ¾ for choice sides, 10c for shoulders, and 14@15c for hams. Some increase in receipts are noted over those of preceding week.

LARD—There is a fair demand for good quality in tins and kegs, quotable at 10c @ 10 ¾ in the former, and 13c in kegs.

EGGS—The market is not at all steady, fluctuating as receipts increase or fall off. Jobbers are selling at 22½c @ dozen to-day, but prices may drop before the week closes.

BUTTER—The market is bare of choice lots, and short on all saleable qualities. We quote at 40c per ¾ for best roll, and 30@35c for common.

CHICKENS—Good lots quotable at $4 50; choice, $5 75@6 per dozen; common, $3 75@4 25.

DRESSED HOGS—The butchers are paying 6@6½ cts ¾ lb, at which there is no unusual demand.

BEEF CATTLE—The arrivals have been a little better, but choice lots are still scarce and in demand at 5c@5½c ¾ lb net, on foot.

MUTTON SHEEP—There is a scarcity of choice fat the market and butchers are compelled to pay $3@4 50 per head for such; common quotable at $2 50@3 50.

HIDES AND FURS—The trade is more active, but prices unchanged, and still quote choice dry 16@17c; green salted, 7c; green, 6c; culls, 10@12c; elk, 2@3c ¾ lb; deer, 18@20c ¾ lb; dried, and 60@70c apiece; green; colt skins each, 50@1 50; otter, $2@5; beaver, 75@$3.

WOOL—Very few transactions are taking place; best grades quotable at 20@22c ¾ lb; common to fair lots, 16@18c.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives, Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure, of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood, liberates the clogged and inflamed humors in the system, and thus eradicates that undermining health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearances on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, where they disturb their healthy functions, and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scrofula and Scrofulous Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from Internal Ulceration and Uterine Disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fever and Ague, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.
